NORMAL SCHOOL FOR WHITES. Addresses of Dr. Curry and Mr. Me-

Gilvrny Before the Committees

Rev. J. L. M. Curry, D. D., appeared before the Educational Committees of the two houses of the General Assembly yesteday afternoon, and addressed them on the importance of normal instruction in general, and especially the need of a normal school for the education of white teachers in Virginis. Two normal schools for colored teachers had been provided. This was right, but there was need also for normal instruction for white teachers. He stated that every State in which any fair proportion of the people have been educated has accomplished it by means of public schools. Virginia is deliberately committed to the policy of public schools and for their maintenance pays in the aggregate a large sum of money. She practically compels most of her citizens to educate their children at these schools. She is bound, then, to see to it that good schools are provided. The teacher makes the school; hence the ways to make good schools is to make good teachers. If the State Lakes the people's money for education it is bound to see to it that full value therefor is received. If the teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teacher is worthless the investment is lost. If one well-educated and well-trained teachers. If the state should take proper and adequat teacher is worth twice as much as one ignorant and untrained the State should take proper and adequate means to prevent a waste of the school money. As a matter of economy, then, schools for the training of teachers should be provided. Skill and knowledge are demanded in every pursuit of life; how infinitely greater the need when the material to be operated on is not dead matter, but the human mind, which is to be instructed, whose faculties are to be trained, and whose influences for good be trained, and whose influences for good or ill will last throughout eternity. There is a wide-spread and lamentable lack of competent teachers. There is much humburggery about teaching; the solid and userful is often sacrificed to the superficial and ornamental. The ordinary school agencies are inadequated to the superficial and ornamental. The ordinary school agencies are inadequated to the superficial and ornamental the ordinary school agencies are inadequated to the superficial and ornamental. The ordinary school agencies are inadequated to the superficial and ornamental the ordinary school agencies are to the superintendent schools for the purpose of discussing points relative to the discouragements by which the superintendent often finds himself surrounded, and through which he of the Superintendent of Public Instruc-tion in the fact that out of 5,078 teachers in the public schools only 87 have been educated at the State institutions. The necessity and practicability of special agen-cies for the training of teachers is shown by the establishment of chairs of peda-gogies, teachers' departments, and special by the base of study for teachers is shown by the establishment of chairs of peda-courses of study for teachers. by the establishment of chairs of peda-gogics, teachers' departments, and special courses of study for teachers in colleges; by the holding of teachers' institutes, which Governor Cameron recently wisely and properly commended to the atten-tion of the General Assembly, and by the establishment of normal schools. In Eu-gage the paymet school is recorded as a rope the normal school is regarded as a necessary auxiliary to a system of public education. It was first established in Germany over 200 years ago, and is now found ducation. It was first established in Germany over 200 years ago, and is now found in nearly every State of the United States. In Massachusetts over 40 per cent. of the teachers have had normal training. A normal school is designed to train teachers, or to prepare them to enter on their work. The pupils in the normal school must show (1) that they can impart this knowledge to others. The end of school-work is the education of the child—the imparting of knowledge and the drawing out and strengthening of its faculties. The object of the normal school is to make its pupil a skilled instrument for the education of the child. It must therefore give to them a definite idea of the true object, principles, and methods of education; a thorough knowledge of the subject he will need to teach, with such facility and skill in the application of these principles and this knowledge as will enable him to organize, control, and classify the school and educate the pupils. This training is simply a means to an end, and all studies should be conducted with special reference to the best ways of teaching of diction by Rev. Mr. Teft.

MONTHLY MEETING OF THE METHODIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL SOCIETY.

Mothodist Sunday-School Society of Richmond and Manchester was held at Clay-Street Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3½ o'clock—A. L. West, president, in the chair; Charles P. Rady and James E. Riddick, secretaries. The meeting was opened with singing by Clay-Street school and prayer by Rev. J. Wiley Bledsoe. Mr. G. J. Hunt, superintendent of Chay-Street school is to make its pupil a skilled instrument for the education of the child. principles of the art, (3) best methods of instruction and government, and (4) skill tendents' reports for the month of Januin the art of teaching by practice. The normal school stands to-day unsurpassed as an economical, well-tried, and approved agency for the education and training of teachers. It is impossible to maintain an efficient system of public instruction without it. In conclusion he presented the following recapitulation of the arguments of the address: 1. The education of the young is so vital to the well-being of society that the State must attend to it as a matter of self-pre-servation; that this is the cheapest, best, and only method of universal education. 2. The proper preparation of teachers is essential to any system of education. 3. Experience in this and other countries shows that teachers are not forthcoming in sufficient numbers and of the right kind were unable to get admittance on Sunday unless the State makes provision for their to hear the grand sermons of Dr. Milburn, preparation.

4. Normal schools are the best means of preparation, and hence are as truly and Rev. Thomas Drew preached both morn-legitimately a part of the public-school ing and night two impressive sermons. The night discourse was very descriptive

In conclusion, Dr. Curry urged the passage of a bill for the establishment of a normal school for the education of white teachers. He said that it was only a ques-

He promised that if such a school were established at least a third of its current expenses would be defrayed by the Peabody Educational Fund. The committee passed a resolution asking Dr. Curry to draw up such a bill as he thought would accomplish the end aimed at for their consideration at an early meet-
